The Serenity Prayer

God Grant me the serenity
to accept the things I cannot change;
Courage to change the things I can;
And wisdom to know the difference.

DIVINE MERCY SUNDAY
(SECOND SUNDAY OF EASTER)

First Reading: Acts 5:12-16

The people held the apostles in great esteem and brought sick people to them to be healed. Although some were afraid to be known, the number of Jesus' followers continued to grow steadily.

Second Reading: Revelation 1:9-11a, 12-13, 17-19

John depicts a vision of lamp-stands of gold and one like the Son of Man in a robe with a sash of gold. This apparition told John he had nothing to fear and then described himself as one who was dead but now lived again. He then instructed John to record any other visions he might have.

Gospel: John 20:19-31

Jesus appeared to the disciples and breathed on them saying, "Receive the Holy Spirit." He gives them the power to forgive people's sins or hold them accountable. Thomas, who was not present, refused to believe Jesus had appeared until he came to them once more. Jesus told Thomas to believe and added, "Blessed are those who have not seen and have believed."

From Pope St. John Paul II...

DIVINE MERCY:

Pledge of Hope and Source of Salvation

Excerpts from a homily of Pope St. John Paul II given in Kraków, Poland, 18 August 2002

From the beginning of her existence, the Church – pointing to the mystery of the Cross and the Resurrection – has preached the mercy of God, a pledge of hope and a source of salvation for man. Nonetheless, it would appear that we today have been particularly called to proclaim this message before the world. We cannot neglect this mission if God himself has called us to it through the testimony of St. Faustina.

God has chosen our own times for this purpose, perhaps because the 20th century, despite indisputable achievements in many areas, was marked in a particular way by the “mystery of iniquity.” In experiencing this mystery, man lives in fear of the future, of emptiness, of suffering, of annihilation. Perhaps for this very reason, it is as if Christ, using the testimony of a lowly sister, entered our time in order to indicate clearly the source of relief and hope found in the eternal mercy of God.

The message of the merciful love needs to resound forcefully anew. The world needs this love. The hour has come to bring Christ’s message to everyone: to rulers and the oppressed, to those whose humanity and dignity seem lost in the mysterium iniquitatis. The hour has come when the message of Divine Mercy is able to fill hearts with hope and to become the spark of a new civilization: the civilization of love...

With this in mind, I turn to the priests and seminarians: I beseech you, brothers, do not forget that, insofar as you are dispensers of Divine Mercy, you have a great responsibility. Remember also that Christ himself comforts you with his promise handed on through St. Faustina: “Tell my priests that hardened sinners will soften at their words, when they speak of my boundless Mercy and of the compassion that I feel for them in my Heart” (Diary, 1521).

We must take a loving look around ourselves if we are to be aware of the neighbor by our side who – because of the loss of work, home, the possibility to maintain his family in a decent manner and to educate his children – feels a sense of abandonment, of being lost, of distrust. This “creativity in charity” is needed to provide material and spiritual assistance to neglected children; to refrain from turning one’s back on the boy or girl who has gotten lost in the world of addiction or crime; to give advice, consolation, spiritual support to those engaged in an internal struggle with evil. May this “creativity” never be lacking when a needy person pleads: “Give us this day our daily bread!” Thanks to brotherly love, this bread will not be lacking. “Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy” (Mt 5:7).
